BEFORE YOU SAY YES

Before you say yes to “one more post”

A short checklist for freelance social media managers assessing an extra client request.

01	Is this a new deliverable, an included revision, or a correction to your own error?
02	Does a cross-post need resizing, new copy, or a separate approval?
03	What work must move to make room for it?
04	Who supplies missing assets, and by when?
05	Can you offer a genuinely comparable swap?
06	If it is additional work, have the estimate and revised delivery date been explicitly approved?

REPLY STARTER

“Happy to discuss it. Our current scope includes [X]. This adds [Y]. We can explore a comparable swap, or I can send an estimate and revised delivery date. Which would you prefer?”

FICTIONAL EXAMPLE

USD 1,200 / 24 hours = USD 50 per hour in revenue. Four unpaid extra hours make it USD 42.86 per hour. Costs and tax are not deducted. This is an illustration, not a market rate or expected result.

Use your own rates and review estimates against your agreement. The currency label does not convert money. Do not share client-confidential information in examples.